

Suzie's Organic Yellow Mustard Launches at Local Costco Stores

All Oregon Locations, along with Vancouver, WA and two Alaska Stores to Receive Product

Pendleton, Ore. (May 18, 2015) – Barhyte Specialty Foods' newest brand – Suzie's – has nabbed a coveted spot in Costco's floorplan. The brand's Organic Yellow Mustard will be available in a two-pack of 20oz bottles for $4.89. This price point is very comparable to similar national brands, but what makes Barhyte's product excel is that Suzie's is certified USDA organic by Oregon Tilth.

The product will launch just in time for Memorial Day weekend in all Oregon Costco stores, as well as the Vancouver, WA location and two Alaska stores.

Says company CEO, Chris Barhyte, "We hope the timing of this launch works well with everyone who's out making a Costco run for the holiday weekend. People are gearing up for summer- camping, picnics, barbecues- and they're going to need that classic yellow mustard to bring along! Plus, we hope people will want to support a local, family company, especially when it's virtually the same price as big national brands."

Barhyte designed the special two-pack of mustard and the Costco box tray, which brightly calls out the product's best attribute: its organic status.

Especially exciting is that in April of this year, Suzie's Organic Yellow Mustard won a silver medal in the World Wide Mustard Competition's "yellow category"; this is the first award the product has ever received.

ABOUT BARHYTE SPECIALTY FOODS

Barhyte Specialty Foods, based out of Pendleton, Oregon, has roots dating back 200 years and 6,000 miles away in Germany, where Jacobus Barhyte first created a sweet-and-sour mustard that he brought to the US. Many generations later, Jan and Susan Barhyte began selling mustard from the original recipe, as well as other signature creations, through their Swift and Martin Station Deli. Thanks to overwhelming demand, the family launched their own manufacturing operation in 1977. Today, the company offers more than 65 award-winning mustards, marinades, sauces, and other condiments through the Barhyte Specialty Foods and the Saucy Mama brand, as well as through co-branded and private label relationships.
